Treatment Summary

Patient:	Travis Smith
Treating provider:	Thomas Hall, DC
Diagnosis:	neck and back strain

The patient presented following a motor vehicle collision in which the patient's vehicle was struck from the rear while turning left at an intersection. The patient reported immediate onset of neck pain with stiffness, mid and low back pain, and intermittent headaches radiating from the cervical region. Examination revealed restricted cervical range of motion, paraspinal muscle tenderness in the cervical and lumbar regions, and mild muscle guarding without neurological deficit. Imaging was not indicated at initial evaluation given the absence of red flag findings.

Treatment consisted of 27 outpatient viists over the course of care, including manual therapy, therapeutic exercise for cervical and lumbar stabilization, modalities for pain control, and a home exercsie program. The patient showed gradual improvement in range of motion and pain scores, with residual intermittent low back stiffness reported toward the end of care. At discharge, the patient was returned to usual daily activities with ongoing home exercise recommendations and advised to return if symptoms worsen.
