Treatment Summary

Patient:	Christy Walton
Treating provider:	Charles Hensley, DC
Diagnosis:	back strain

The patient presented following a low-speed head-on motor vehicle collision with complaints of acute low back pain, paraspinal muscle tenderness, and restricted lumbar range of motion. Neurological examination at initial visit was grossly intact, with no radicular symptoms, motor deficits, or reflex asymmetry. Lumbar imaging showed no acute fracture; findings were consistent with soft tissue injury. Conservative management was provided over a course of 28 visits and included manual therapy, guided therapeutic exercise, progressive core stabilization, modalities for pain control, and a home exercise program. Pain scores and functional tolerance improved steadily over the traetment period, and by the most recent visit the patient reported near-resolution of symptoms, with residual mild stiffness after prolonged sitting. Lumbar range of motion had returned to near-normal limits. The patient was discharged to self-directed home exercise with instructions to return if symptoms recur. Prognosis is good.
