Treatment Summary

Patient:	Diane Hamilton
Treating provider:	Timothy York, DC
Diagnosis:	concussion

The patient presented following a motor vehicle collision in which the vehicle was struck from the side while the patient was turning left at an intersection. Initial evaluation documented a concussion with headache, dizziness, photosensitivity, and difficulty concentrating. There was no loss of consciousness reported at the scene, and the patient denied focal neurological deficits on examination.

Over the course of care, the patient completed 29 visits combining supervised vestibular rehabilitation, graded aerobic exercise, cervical physical therapy, and cognitive rest with gradual return-to-activity planning. Symptom scores improved steadily, with headache frequency and dizziness decreasing substantially by the midpoint of treatment. Vision and balance testing normalized in later sessions, although intermittent fatigue with prolonged screen use persisted.

At discharge, the patient was tolerating full work duties with minor accommodations, such as scheduled screen breaks. Ongoing home exercises and a symptom diary were recommended. Follow-up with prmiary care was advised if headaches recur or new symptoms develop.
