Treatment Summary

Patient:	Cody Rodriguez
Treating provider:	Michael Clark, DC
Diagnosis:	whiplash

The patient presented following a motor vehicle collision in which their vehicle was sideswiped while changing lanes. Presentnig complaints included neck pain, stiffness, and headache beginning shortly after the incident, with reduced cervical range of motion on examination and paraspinal muscle tenderness without focal neurological deficit. Imaging was not clinically indicated at initial evaluation given the absence of red-flag findings.

Over five visits, the patient received a structured cousre of conservative care consisting of manual therapy, soft tissue mobilization, progressive cervical range-of-motion exercises, and a home stretching program. Pain levels decreased steadily across visits, and cervical mobility improved to near-normal limits by the final session. Headache frequency also declined.

At discharge the patient reported mild residual stiffness with occasional discomfort after prolonged sitting, but was able to perform usual daily activities and return to work without restriction. No further treatment is currently scheduled. The patient was advised to continue the home exercise program and to return if symptoms worsen or new neurological symptoms develop.
