Treatment Summary

Patient:	Dennis Hall
Treating provider:	James Arnold, DC
Diagnosis:	concussion

The patient presented following a low-speed collision in a parking lot and was evaluated for concussion symptoms including headache, dizziness, light sensitivity, and difficulty concentrating. Initial neurological screening showed no focal deficits, and imaging was not indicated based on clinical findings. The patient was placed on cognitive and physical rest with a graduated return-to-activity plan. Over the course of 17 visits, care focused on symptom monitoring, vestibular and oculomotor exercises, and gradual reintrdouction of work and school demands. Symptoms improved steadily, with headaches and light sensitivity resolving first, followed by improved concentration and balance. Residual mild fatigue persisted intermittently but was manageable with pacing strategies. At the most recent evaluation, the patient was cleared for full daily activities with a recommendation to report any recurrence of symptoms promptly.
