Treatment summary

Patient presented after a sidesiwpe collision that occurred while the other driver was changing lanes. The reported mechanism is consistent with the knee injury observed on examination, and the force described fits the pattern of soft tissue and joint findings documented here. Imaging and clinical examination clearly confirm the injury. No prior injury to the same knee has been reported or identified in the patient's history. Care was delivered across five visits and followed a conventional progression, with frequency of sessions reduced as range of motion, strength, and pain improved. Treatment was limited to services medically necessary for the condition, and billing for these visits reflects single, non-duplicated charges. At the most recent visit the patient was improving and was advised on a home exercise program and on return precautions. Further follow-up will be arranged only if symptoms recur.
