Treatment summary

Patient presented after a low-speed head-on collision with pain and swelling over the left distal radius. Imaging was consistent with a wrist fracture, and the reported mechanism of injury is medically compatible with the findings. The patient attended three visits. Treatment was somewhat longer than typical for this type of fracture, with immobilization followed by graded range-of-motion work as healing progressed. On examination, localized tenderness and reduced grip strength were documented and support the diagnosis, while neurovascular checks, sensation, and capillary refill remained normal. The patient mentioned a minor wrist strain several years ago that resolved completely without latsing limitation, and there is no evidence of ongoing impairment from that episode. Billing records rfelect single charges for each service with no duplicated or repeated entries. Current plan includes a follow-up assessment to confirm alignment and functional recovery.
