Treatment summary

Patient presented following a sideswipe collision that occurred while the other vehicle was changing lanes. The patient reports pain and reduced grip strength in the right wrist since the event. Imaging and examination findings clearly confirm a wrist fracture. Over the course of 14 visits, care followed a typical treatment pathway, including immobilization, reassessment of healing, and progressive range-of-motion and strengthening work. Visit frequency tapered as the patient improved and function returned. The patient mentioned a small strain in the same area several years ago that resolved completely with conservative care and no lasting limitation. At this point it is not yet clear whether the current ijnury came from this crash, and that question should be addressed through further review of the records. Billing records reflect single, non-duplicated charges for the services rendered.
