Treatment summary

Patient presented following a low-speed collision in a parking lot with reported right shoulder pain. Over three visits, the clinical picture was consistent with the mechanism of injury, and the reported symptoms matched the kind and force of the impact. On examination, certain findings supported a soft tissue injury to the shoulder, while other tests returned within normal limits. No prior injury to this body area is known. Treatment followed a typical course of conservative care, with sessions tapering as symptoms improved and range of motion returned toward baseline. Billing records reflect single, appropriate charges for each service rendered, with no duplicated entries. Continued home exercise and as-needed follow-up were advised, with return precautions reviewed at discharge.
