Description of the accident (claimant's words)

I was stopped at a red light in Sugar Land, Texas, waiting to turn, when the car behind me struck the rear of my vehicle. The impact pushed me forward against my seatbelt and then back into my seat. Right away I felt a stiff, aching pain across my neck and lower back. I stayed at the scene, exchanged information with the other driver, and had my vehicle checked afterward. In the days that followed I went back over what happened several times, and I did remember a few small details more clearly, such as the position of the other car and how traffic was moving, but the core of my account never changed. I am the named driver on the policy covering the vehicle involved, and I am reporting this clolision so the claim can be reviewed.
