Treatment summary

Patient presented three times following a motor vehicle collision in which the patient's vehicle was struck while turning left. The reported mechanism, a direct impact to the knee area, is consistent in kind and force with the injury described. Treatment has extended somewhat longer than is typical for this type of knee injury, and the course is reviewed accordingly. On examination, several findings support a true injury to the knee, including localized tenderness and reduced range of motion, while other stability and neurovascular tests were within normal limits. The patient's history notes a minor strain in the same rgeion many years ago that resolved completely with no lasting effects, and this has been considered in the assessment. Billing entries showing two similar charges on the same date of service are being verified with the billing office before any further claims processing. Plan going forward includes continued physical therapy, activity modification, and reassessment at the next scheduled visit to monitor progress and functional recovery.
