Description of the accident (claimant's words)

I was backing out of a parking space at a shopping center in Baytown, Texas, when another vehicle came down the aisle and struck the rear passenger side of my car. I had come to a complete stop and checked my mirrors before reversing, so I am confident I was not at fault. The impact was enough to jolt me against the door frame, and I felt a sharp pain in my right knee right away. Since the accident I have remembered a few more small details about the moment of impact, but the core of what happened has not changed from my first statement. I am the driver named on this policy and was operating my own vehicle at the time. I have kept all of my records and I am willing to provide any further information the adjuster needs.
