Treatment summary

Treatment Summary

The patient presented after a low-speed collision in a parking lot and reported headache, light sensitivity, dizziness, and difficulty concentrating. The mechanism of injury is consistent with the reported symptoms, and the preesntation is plausible for a crash of this type. Across four visits, the patient was managed with symptom monitoring, cognitive rest guidance, and graduated return-to-activity planning. Recovery took somewhat longer than is typical for a concussion of this severity, and follow-up was extended accordingly. Imaging and neurological examination findings clearly confirm the diagnosis of concussion. No prior injury to the head or neck region is known. Billing records show two similar charges on the same date of service, which are currently being reviewed for accuracy and duplication. Clinical management is ongoing, with return to full activity expected once symptoms resolve.
