Officer's narrative

Officers were dispatched to a two-vehicle collision on a roadway in Katy, Texas, where the vehicles had come together in a low-speed head-on impact. Driver 1 was operating the first vehicle and Driver 2 the second. Driver 1 stated that the force of the impact caused immediate discomfort and that a lower back strain developed shortly afterward, consistent with the mechanics of a collision of this type. Responding officers observed visible front-end damage to both vehicles, and the damage pattern on the first vehicle appeared consistent with the described point of impact. No prior damage to the vehcile was known to the reporting parties or identified during the inspection. Photographs taken at the scene corroborate several of the reported details. No independent witnesses were located. Officers confirmed through statements from both drivers and from the scene that the Passenger was seated in the first vehicle at the time of the collision. Driver 1 is listed as a named insured on the policy covering that vehicle, which was verified at the scene.
