Treatment summary

Patient presented following a collision sustained while turning left, reporting wrist pain and a claimed fracture of the wrist. Over sixteen visits, care followed a conventional course, with frequency tapering as symptoms were reported to improve. Radiographic studies and clinical examination were within normal limits, and the wrist findings documented here rest almost entirely on the patient's subjective pain reports. Per the history obtained, there is no known prior injury to the same area. The description of the impact indicates a low-energy event, which does not clearly correspond to the severity of the injury being claimed. Billing records reviewed for this episode show no duplicated or repeated charges for the same services. Recommend continued clinical correlation and reassessment if new objective findings emerge.
