Officer's narrative

On the day of the incident, I was dispatched to an intersection in League City, Texas, where a two-vehicle collision had been reported. Driver 1 stated that they were making a left turn when their vehicle was struck by Driver 2's vehicle. Driver 2 gave a statement consistent with that account and said the contact occurred as Driver 1 turned across their path. Both vehicles remained in the roadway when I arrived. An independent witness at the corner confirmed the sequence of events, and photograhps taken at the scene show the contact points on both vehicles. The damage to Dirver 1's vehicle is generally consistent with the reported impact. Passenger was seated in Driver 1's vehicle at the time of the collision and was identified by both drivers and the witness. Driver 1 reported pain in the right wrist and was evaluated by emergency medical personnel on scene. No prior damage to Driver 1's vehicle was known to either party or noted during the inspection. Driver 1 provided proof of insurance listing them as a named driver on the policy. No citations were issued at the scene.
