Treatment summary

Patient presented following a collision that occurred while the patient was turning left and was struck from the side. Examination on initial visit revealed localized swelling, tenderness, and reduced rnage of motion at the wrist. Imaging confirmed a fracture consistent with the mechanism described, and the findings on examination and imaging clearly corroborate the reported injury. The patient was managed with immobilization, pain control, and scheduled follow-up. Recovery was slower than typically expected for this type of fracture, and the course of care extended across five visits to monitor healing and function. No prior injury to the same area is known from the patient's history. Billing records reflect single charges for each service, with no duplicated or repeated entries.
