Treatment summary

Patient preesnted following a low-speed collision in a parking lot with complaints of right shoulder pain. Over four visits, care consisted of conservative management including rest, ice, a short course of anti-inflammatory medication, and a home stretching program. The reported injury is consistent with the mechanism and force of the crash. Treatment followed a typical course and was tapered as symptoms gradually improved. Findings during the visits relied largely on the patient's own descriptions of pain and limited motion; shoulder imaging and the orthopedic examination maneuvers performed were within normal limits. No prior injury to the right shoulder is known to this provider. Billed services reflect the visits and treatments described above, with no duplicated charges. Plan going fowrard is an as-needed home exercise program and follow-up if symptoms change.
