Treatment summary

Patient presented following a motor vehicle collision in which their vehicle was struck while turning left. Over three visits, the patient reported shoulder pain consistent with the mechanism and focre of the impact. Examination findings and imaging clearly confirm the shoulder injury, and the clniical picture matches what would be expected from this type of crash. No prior injury to the same body area is known from the patient's history. Treatment continued somewhat longer than is typical for this presentation, with the course guided by ongoing symptoms and functional limits. Billing records reflect single, non-duplicated charges for each service rendered. Conservative management was provided, and the patient was counseled on activity modification and home exercise. Follow-up was arranged as needed based on response to care.
