Treatment summary

Patient presented following a rear-end motor vehcile collision with complaints of right knee pain and swelling. This summary covers two visits. On initial evaluation, the knee showed mild effusion and tenderness along the medial joint line, consistent with the reported mechanism, while ligamentous stability testing and neurovascular checks were within normal limits. Imaging was ordered to rule out fracture. Causation of the knee findings relative to this collision is not yet clear and will be reassessed as more information becomes available. No prior injury to the same area is known to the patient or documented in the record. Conservative care was provided, including rest, ice, compression, and a short course of anti-inflammatory medication with home exercises. The patient followed the expected recovery pattern, and symptoms steadily decreased by the second visit, at which point the plan was to taper care and resume normal activity as tolerated. Billing records reflect one charge per service with no duplicate or repeated entries.
