Treatment summary

Clinical Treatment Summary

The patient presented after a rear-end motor vehicle collision with wrist pain and swelling. The reported mechanism of injury is consistent with a crash of this type. Radiographs and physical examination clearly confirm a fracture of the distal radius. Over five visits, the patient was managed with immobilization, pain control, and follow-up imaging. Recovery has been somewhat slower than is usual for this injury, so the course of care ran longer than typical.

Review of the records shows the patient was under long-standing treatment for the same wrist region before this collision. Much of the current complaint of discomfort appears to stem from that earlier condition rather than from the recent fracture alone. Billing records for this episode show no repeated charges for the same services.
