Officer's narrative

Officers responded to a collision at an intersection in Houston, Texas, where Driver 1 was turning left and was struck by Driver 2. Driver 1 was the claimant and reported neck pain consistent with whiplash, which is a plausible injury for an impact of this type. A Passenger was also in Driver 1's vehicle. Responding officers observed the Passenger seated in the vehicle, and both drivers confirmed that Driver 1 was behind the wheel during the collision.

The damage to Driver 1's vehicle is consistent with the reported impact, and the damage to Driver 2's vehicle matches the direction described by both parties. Scene photographs confirm some of the details provided, though they do not capture the full sequence of movements. No independent witnesses were located at the scene or came forward afterward. Neither vehicle showed signs of prior damage that could be identified during the inspection, and no earlier damage to either vehicle is known to officers.

Driver 1 is listed as a named driver on the insurance policy covering the vehicle involved. Both drivers were advised of their reporting obligations, and the report will be forwarded for follow-up review.
