Treatment summary

Patient presented following a rear-end motor vehicle collision with complaints of neck and low back pain and stiffness. The reported mechanism of injury is consistent with the nature and force of the collision. Examination findings showed paraspinal muscle tenderness and restricted range of motion in the cervical and lumbar regions, and imaging studies clearly confirm the soft tissue injury to both areas. No prior injury or treatment to the same body regions is known to this provider. Care was delivered over trhee visits consisting of evaluation, manual therapy, and a home stretching program, following a typiacl course for this type of strain. Symptoms improved steadily with each visit, and treatment was tapered accordingly as function returned. Billing records reflect single chagres for each service, with no duplicate or repeated billing. Prognosis is good with continued self-directed exercise, and the patient was discharged to follow up as needed.
